

Biography #1

L. T. Standing creates speculative worlds shaped by history, philosophy, and the consequences of human choice. An author of fantasy, speculative fiction, children's literature, and philosophical works, Standing also serves in the Ukrainian military. Their writing explores responsibility, relationships, inherited histories, and the choices that shape people and civilizations.

Biography #2

L. T. Standing is the creator of speculative worlds shaped by history, philosophy, and the enduring consequences of human choice. Their writing spans epic fantasy, speculative fiction, children's literature, and philosophical works, including the Blood and Covenant series, The 13th Library, Red Orcs, Wellington, and Strong As Us.

Alongside their writing career, Standing built an unconventional life in education, military service, and the study of human behavior. They hold a degree in psychology and a certificate in terrorism studies. Since 2024, they have served in the Ukrainian military across operational and instructional roles, receiving Ukrainian military and presidential honors. Standing's experiences inform their writing without defining its boundaries.

Their work explores people shaped by responsibility, relationships, history, and the consequences of their choices. Drawing from psychology, philosophy, ancient texts, Buddhist thought, Hermetic philosophy, and astrology, Standing approaches ideas as part of an ongoing conversation across generations.

Biography # 3

L. T. Standing is the creator of speculative worlds shaped by history, philosophy, and the enduring consequences of human choice. Their fiction explores what happens when ordinary people inherit extraordinary circumstances and must decide who they will become.

Standing is the author of the Blood & Covenant series, The 13th Library, Red Orcs, Wellington, and Strong As Us. Across genres, epic fantasy, speculative fiction, children's literature, and philosophical works, their stories are built through accumulation: conversations in kitchens, friendships tested over time, inherited conflicts, humor in the face of disaster, and the quiet moments in which civilizations actually change.

Alongside writing, Standing has built an unconventional life across education, military service, and the study of human behavior. They hold a degree in psychology and a certificate in terrorism studies. Since 2024, they have served in the Ukrainian military in both operational and instructional roles, receiving Ukrainian military and presidential honors. Standing's experiences inform their writing without defining its limits. Imagination, for Standing, is not an escape but a journey.